Friday November 9th

Washington DC
National Archives Museum
Ariel

On October 23 LMS took the students on a Three-day field trip to Washington DC. On this trip, the kids got to pick their friends as their roommates. They also went to museums like the American history museum, the natural history museum and more. One of the very interesting places the 8th graders went to was the National Archives museum.

The National Archives was a. The Archives is most famous for holding important document like the Declaration of independence. One of the teachers Mr.Klein his group of almost all girls whipped in front of the declaration and whispered "independence". Did you know that you are not allowed to take pictures here because it could fade the writing from the paper? Even though the declaration is the most famous there is a lot more to learn in this museum. Overall DC taught the 8th graders a lot of new interesting things.

The First High school Football Game
Snow White

It was the first High School Louisville football game, August 24, 2018. It had started to rain as people surrounded the front gate waiting to get their tickets, get in to the game, or wait for friends to arrive. When the gate opened everyone flooded in enjoying the smell of the delicious food from the food stands you could also see the many people trying to sell things. Loud stomping of bleachers being filled up made ears ring and multiple conversations were heard miles away. While most parents sat in the stands, kids would run around with friends even though they are not supposed to. You could hear the cheers and boos on both sides as the game started. Cheerleaders down on the field would try to pump up the fans for either the lose or the win. The games are always fun when you can have friends to hang out with, amazing food everywhere, and excitement coming from every corner of the stadium.

Veterans day in the middle school
Aladdin

November 2,2018 was Veterans day at Louisville middle school. Classrooms were full of students and veterans. There was two classes that were not in the classrooms. One was outside and one was in the auditorium. students liked the one in the auditorium better because they got to put on the armor and hold the weapons they used. Students even demonstrated how to use the stretcher that they used when anybody got injured and they needed to get away from where they are. The veterans that were outside had a museum that had many different types of guns from every war. They also had clothes from every war. They had a truck with two semi-auto 50 caliber shotguns and one 14 caliber machine gun. There was one veteran that was telling students about the weight of the trucks empty and full. The students learned that you have to put in hard work to get where you want in life.

This year's book fair

Anna

This year at LMS there is an assortment of new graphic novels and stories to read. November 5 through the 9 the students were able to enter the library to explore all the assortment of books. Like Anya's ghost for example which is about a teen who accidentally falls into a deep well. She didn't think she was going to make any new friend. Anya is a castaway at her school she doesn't expect to find a new friend who is already dead. Read the book to see how their relationship grows as friends. This book is recommended so go and take the time to go check it out at the book fair.

One of the most popular series there are of course Diary of a Wimpy Kid, with the newest book in stock The Getaway, which is full of fun and laughter. Just as winter approaches as the Heffleys try to get away from the cold and decide to go to a tropical resort for a few days. This is another suggestion from the librarians to definitely read. Another recommendation from the librarians is Nimona. Nimona is a young shapeshifter with the eye for evil, she decides to take a mission and help wreak havoc all over the area. This is a great book make sure you read and come to the book fair. The book fair is just like an open book.

Marathon Kids

Beast

Marathon Kids is a club where up to fifty students get to run for twenty minutes each day and the students have the choice on which days they want to run (or walk). The students are given a challenge to run a marathon (twenty-six point two miles) over nine weeks. It can and will help you with running but the club is so much more than that.

Marathon Kids helps students open up and make new friends. Marathon Kids is open to anyone who wants to join the club. The club is supposed to give students a time to have fun and exercise right before or after school. The club is for students just to have a good time and have a set time to just have fun with their friends.

The students get a prize/ reward after each time they run a marathon. The first prize is a t-shirt the second prize is unknown until student(s) run their second marathon. The program only costs ten dollars four weeks before and the first two weeks after the club starts. For all of the benefits the club gives you ten dollars is a steal!

Halloween Dance

Buzz

On October 31, 2018, the Louisville Middle School hosted a Halloween dance for the students. Students were running around with friends, others were popping balloons or dancing. Students were eating the cookies the school had out. Students were throwing sticky eyeballs onto the ceiling and hitting each other with sticky hands. When kids were in the gym, they got told to be careful and watch where they were going. While they were told to stop running, other kids kept running so more custodians had to come to the gym and tell them to stop running. But they didn't so they got in trouble and sat out of the gym for the rest of the party. Everybody had a good time at the Halloween party and as soon as they got outside, it was raining. So everyone had to stay under the roof till their parents got there.
