

A Lifetime Event

8th Grade Week Was a Hit in Louisville!

The 8th grade game was exciting on October 20th, 2018. The bears, lions face of the colts, browns this weekend. They were called the blue and white. The game was played through the Louisville Leopard Stadium. The fans had a concession stand so they can eat and watch their kids. The the score to the game was 14-6. Blue won the game! At the end of the game, the players got together eating pizza and got a speech from J. V., J.A. and a couple of seniors from the Louisville High School Team. This was a good learning opportunity for 8th graders for going into high school football next year. I hope everyone had a fun time at Louisville this weekend and didn't get hit by a football!

By Ants

Factory of terror was exciting For more people to come!

At the factory of terror on Friday November 2nd K. M., K.S., K.B., and C. M. all went to the factory of terror. When the girls were waiting in line on of the scares came up behind them and scared them. Then when we got to the front they were walking in and K.B. ran back to the line because she was scared and the guy was telling her to go in, but she wouldn't. But when she wouldn't come in the guy picked her up an and threw her over his shoulder and made her come with us but she ran back out and had someone go and pick her up. Then C.M., K.S., and K.M. went in together and people kept coming out and scaring them. C.M., K. M., and K. S. were walking and K.M. went under this door and bashed her head off of the side of the wall. Then we all went home and got food then went to bed.

By Slippery

Veterans day was here!

Veterans day was last friday at Louisville Middle school on November second. There was at least 15 veterans at the middle school and all told some spectacular stories and experiences. They answered all students questions about there service and taertd5xime in the armed services. Some of the veterans even had the extra time to bring in some of their personal items. Such as, shining silver, gold or bronze metals, purple hearts which were purple as a violet, and some of their clothing which were green, blue and red uniforms and much more. They were all not just from one major conflict, but a large array of different conflicts. Some were large and some were small. And at the end of the day the veterans get their grandchildren in the school and all told a small speech about there time in the service or just simply advice to the younger people of today's society. And finally, to wrap all of this love for our veterans the quire sang a veteran song and the band played the Pledge of Allegiance while we stood in respect for the veterans. And God bless america.

By Derby

Skyzone

On November 3, 2018 K. and her friends C., K., K., A., T., D., E. and J. all went to Sky Zone trampoline indoor area and had a blast together. When they all got there they all met up and got food then just hung out. Later, they all started jumping for about 2 hours then left. They went Chick-Fil A and got a bunch of food then stayed at C's house that night.

By Mel

Louisville Middle School book fair

This week at Louisville Middle School they are having a book fair from the 5th to the 9th of November at 8:00 to 2:30 every day. They have awesome books, journals, and stickers that you can buy. Some of the awesome books they have are Hocus Pocus, Descendants Three, Love and Gelato, and Star Wars. A. says, "The book Haunted sounds interesting." There are also awesome books like minecraft and world record books. "Love and Gelato sounds really cool," said M., "I also liked the book Hocus Pocus." So make sure you come to the Louisville Middle School book fair.

By Cappy

A Painful Halloween Dance

On a Wednesday night, there was a Halloween dance at the and there had been a unexpected fight in the dark gym of the Louisville Middle School. There was a student who wishes to stay anonymous that punched another kid in the face, and dislocated his jaw. He ran to the bathroom crying and then eventually blacked-out. There was an eighth grader named A. who's 6th and 7th grade friends came running up to her while freaking out. They told her what happened, but unfortunately she had to leave so she couldn't help find the person who had done it. Later the next day, she found out who it was that got punched and who had done it. It wasn't who they said it was. She was upset to find out that it was one of her friends was the culprit. She was relieved to hear that the boy who was punched is okay.

By Goochy

D.C. Trip

On the dc trip there was a lot of excitement on the busses as well the food was great and the stops we went to were so cool we went to the national archives the smithsonian and we also went to many different food restaurants and we went to different rest stops. Over all the trip was fun for the 8th graders. The 8th graders went to many different places such as a ymca known as the rec center, a hotel wich we stayed for 2 nights, the national archives we walked a lot of parks and alot of walking trails we went to many memorials like the lincoln memorial and the washington memorial and the korean memorial and the ww2 memorial and the civil war memorial.

By Swoop

Get Cheap Food Today

Boneless Ham 1.99$ a pound.

Fresh Bananas 90 cents a pound.

Buy 1 get 1 free lawn chairs.

